

In Looking for Alaska, assign a prompt at the end of “BEFORE” and at the end of “AFTER”. In Catcher in the Rye, assign after Ch. 13 and at the end. The prompt is supposed to help the students be pre-emptively gathering evidence for the final paper and starting to directly connect the essential questions to the text.

Journal Prompt:

Choose one of the essential questions to answer in 7-8 sentences. You will do four of these journals this unit, so it would be beneficial to not use the same EQ for every response. These journal responses will help you with your final paper.

In your response, make sure to directly connect your answer to the text as support. Your response should include one piece of textual evidence and should follow the CERCA (Claim, Evidence—make sure to integrate, Reasoning, Counterpoint, and Analysis/Audience Recognition) format.
