

Looking for Alaska Final Project: Mapping the Novel

70 points

Due: Tuesday, February 2nd

In groups of 4-5, you will map out the novel we have just finished. I strongly suggest you take your time, work together, and make a rough draft of everything first—the written and drawn portions. I will provide the paper for the final drawing of the map. There are a few parts to this final project. See below for details for each part.

MAP→45 points

- Every place mentioned in the novel (or all of significance) must appear on the map.
- For each location, there needs to be a list of events for the place with page numbers (see below in Explanations)
- The map layout must make sense to the story and flow. For example, one of the corners of the paper will have Pudge's House in Florida because it is far away from Culver Creek Preparatory School, but all the places on campus will be close to one another on the paper.
- Each place must have some sort of illustration to mark & represent its spot. EX: The creek will be marked with a picture of a waterway and the barn should be marked by some sort of structure resembling a barn. They can be drawn if you have someone in your group with artistic talent or printed out and NEATLY glued to the map.

Explanations→25 points

- Using the place journals from everyone in your group, you will put the events that occurred in that place in chronological order with page numbers.
- Each explanation of an event should be brief, but sufficiently express the importance of the event. Think about how to say relevant things in a to-the-point matter. Each place is different, so some will have many bullet points and others will only have a few. If you did your place journal well, this will be a piece of cake.
- The explanations should be typed up and there should be a legend, so I know which explanation goes with which place. Each location on the map will have a number next to it that corresponds with the explanation of the place. The word document of explanations should look like this:

#1—Mile's/Pudge's House in Florida

- His mom insists on throwing a going away party that he does not want and no one comes to (Pg. 2)
- He does not like it at home in Florida because he is seeking a "GREAT PERHAPS" (Pg. 5)
- (There will be more than two but I am only giving you two....like when he goes home for break, etc.)

#2--Room 43 Pudge and Colonel's Room

- Pudge and Colonel meet for the first time (pg.6)
- Lots of time is spent hanging out on their cracked leather couch playing video games
- Alaska barges into the room to confess to Pudge that she ratted out Mayra and feels horrible and that she messes up everything (Pg. 95-6)
- (There will be more but I am only giving you these....)
